That's cabins with a "K" . . .
for our kids at Camp Akita.

To meet the need of additional beds for both summer camps and retreats, the purpose of the Kabins4Kids campaign is to raise funds for double log cabins. Each cabin of a double unit has a bathroom and entrance (one from the front, and the other from the back) with a locking pocket door separating the cabin into two private living spaces. Each double cabin will sleep 12 individuals. The estimated cost for each double cabin is approximately $65,000 (including not only the materials, but plumbing, electricity, heat and cooling, as well as site preparation).

Funds are needed to build two double cabins before the 2007 camping season begins.

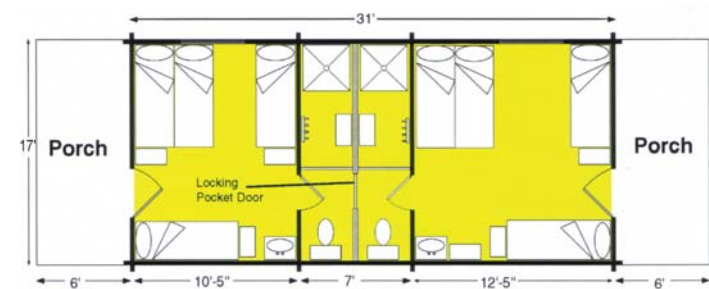

Walk, run, or ride and all the funds you raise will be used in the "Kabins4Kids" project. For more information and Bike-A-Thon forms, go online to www.campakita.com, click on Bike-A-Thon.
